

“All the Mews
That’s Fit to Print”

Early Edition

Today: Sunny with a chance of wind in Kitty Plaza and Kitty Mania.

Kitty City Daily

Aqueduct Cancelled

Kitty citizens will awaken Saturday morning without the sounds of fresh running water. Due to complications in the environmental review process, and cost overruns, plans for Kitty City’s inaugural aqueduct have been postponed, indefinitely.

Despite an extensive planning process, engineering studies for the aqueduct’s pumping mechanism proved inconclusive. Kitty City citizen, and chief engineer, Carlin stated, “It is unfortunate that the aqueduct will not move forward as planned. It was an ambitious project, but hopefully we will be able to build it in the future.”

Until then, Kitty Citizens will continue to enjoy water courtesy of the New York City taps.

Meet the Kittens!

More on page 6.

Kitty City Ribbon Cutting

Kitty City, the inter-generational experiment in collaboration and pedagogy, will have its inaugural ribbon cutting today at 1 PM.

Today’s event will celebrate the city’s unique feline environment, rigorous design standards, and public review process.

Kitty City’s manifesto will be distributed and discussed, and citizens will take an oath affirming their adherence to the community’s principals of maintaining a just and humane environment for all.

Kitty City Pursues New Form of Scratching Post

Reaching soaring heights and utilizing innovative textiles, Kitty City will unveil new forms of scratching posts on Saturday. The new posts, which vary in height and texture, were inspired by collaboration between Kitty Citizens. The new posts boast of lounging areas, perches, a recycled doll house on a rotating axis, and many nubby fabrics.

Example of new scratching post style.

Ask Mr. Wilson:

Dear Mr. Wilson:

I am a cat who lives in a comfortable, cozy home. I am well fed, well rested, and my every meow is addressed. However, the humans in my life do not understand how to pick me up, and do not understand that being carried around can be uncomfortable, and I don’t want to hurt them by scratching. Please help!

~Anonymous

Dear Meower,

There is an adage to which wholly appropriate, “A cornered cat becomes as fierce as a lion.” I’ve found, even without using my claws, I can use the strength of my legs to break free of any hold. Then, I jump on the humans lap and purr, to show how I like to show affection.

Mr. Wilson ponders life’s difficult questions